

ESOP

Overview

Employee stock ownership plans – ESOPs – can be complicated, often involving multiple areas of law. Our ESOP Group uses an efficient team approach, working closely across disciplines to ensure a seamless delivery of services to our clients. Our practice includes significant depth in every aspect of a full-service ESOP practice – ERISA, tax, corporate finance, lending, securities regulation, fiduciary governance and litigation, labor and employment, restructuring and creditors' rights, estate planning, and mergers and acquisitions – making our practice the one-stop shop our ESOP clients need.

Because we understand the complexities of ESOPs, we can help business owners determine whether an ESOP is the right fit. We can help establish a simple ESOP – where stock will be redeemed from owners and allocated to employees over an extended period of time, or a more typical ESOP, formed as part of a significant financial transaction – where all or a substantial portion of an owner's interest is acquired by the ESOP. We address the complexities associated with this type of transaction from every angle – for owners and their companies, for ESOP trustees in buying or selling stock or assets, and for ESOP lenders. Our involvement extends over the life of an ESOP, handling the administrative questions and other issues that arise in the early stages of an ESOP, as well as later-stage issues, including repurchase liability and plan termination.

We know that an ESOP company needs more than legal counsel. It needs a key team of ESOP professionals, such as accountants, financial and tax advisors, lenders, investment bankers, administrators, valuation firms, and professional trustees or other independent fiduciaries. At Tucker Ellis, our relationships with these service providers are integral to helping our ESOP clients assemble the most effective team for their unique needs.

Ranked in Chambers USA in the area of Employee Benefits & Executive Compensation (Ohio), our practice garners appreciation from clients who remark that Tucker Ellis has “the bench strength to deal with a wide variety of issues.” One interviewee says, “In addition to legal expertise in the very complex and difficult subject of ERISA and ESOP, the firm has expertise in trial work in this area and a very good approach to litigation.”
